Call for Case Study Paper

Theme:
Collaboration for Inclusive Growth

About Conference

The role of ICT in nation's growth trajectory is well known. The Government is developing a broader framework for enhancing ICT penetration by extending e-enabled governance initiatives. When complemented by the Industry's support in providing e-interface between the citizen and the Government, it will add a new dimension to the practices of a participatory democracy - a true collaborative approach. Providing ICT products, services, workplace environments and facilities that are accessible and usable for all users is the ultimate goal of "design for all" or "inclusive design". There is need for effective collaboration between major stake holders like – people, technology and the systems. To make it effective there is need for collaborative technologies to become adaptive, dynamic and integratable. These features will help to 'design for all' for proper inclusive solutions. There should be effective framework for digital participation. It should enhance the digital delivery of varied, relevant and important public services with effective policy and governance. Global spread of technological proficiencies is introducing major transformations in diverse fields of Health, Agriculture, Banking, Education, Media & Entertainment etc. society needs to innovatively harness this immense potential for meaningful e-Inclusion for its growth “SEARCC 2011” will address key aspects of the proposed theme and the way various SEARCC countries are progressing towards the goal of inclusive growth. The program comprises of four tracks and panel discussions along with some important case study presentation by different SEARCC countries.
